Offline Version

The offline version contains almost everything the wiki has to the exception of dokuwiki info/syntax pages, template pages and some wiki guideline pages. I'm still in the process of tweaking the XHTML version, there are two or three things I'd like to improve, one being using a better template than the default one. Once I got a satisfactory offline XHTML version, I'll do a PDF export too. Except an update in the next week or so. For now, this is a XHTML version, which I am about 80% satisfied with. Feel free to drop comments and suggestions about it on Discord or on the forums.

One thing that needs a fix: The image galleries do not show the arrows and quit button (which still work if you know where they usually are), you can however navigate a gallery with the left/right arrows and press quit with ESC. Also, the best way to navigate this version is by the table_of_content.html page, an index that was made specifically for this version since exporting the pages Body only remove the side menu (which was no longer on the side anyway but at the bottom of each page so I removed it).
